3 Story jokes

Two windmills are standing on a wind farm amidst a pleasant day and a gentle breeze. One strikes up a conversation and asks the other, “What’s your favorite type of music?”

The other says, “I’m a big metal fan.”

I was wondering why the ball was getting bigger. Then it hit me.

A person was walking along the bank of a river and then spotted another person on the opposite side. Excited, the person shouted to the other person, “I need you to help me get to the other side!”

Confused, the other person, shouted back, “But you are on the other side!”

A farmer went out to the barn to milk the cow early one morning. The farmer was milking away quietly and had the bucket almost half full when a fly flew into the barn and started circling the farmer’s head.

Suddenly, the fly flew into the cow’s ear!

The farmer didn’t think much of it until the fly squirted out into the bucket.

The farmer remarked, “Looks like it went in one ear and out the udder!”

The teacher asks, “If you had two dollars and asked your parent for one more dollar, how many dollars would you have?”

The student said, “Two dollars.”

The teacher looked at the student quizzically, “Really? You don’t know your arithmetic.”

The student replies, “You don’t know my parents.”

One day an out-of-work mime was visiting the zoo and they figure they’ll try to earn some money performing. It was great! Unfortunately, as soon as they drew a crowd, a zookeeper showed up, grabbed the mime, and dragged the mime into the office.

The zookeeper sat the mime down and explained, “Our most popular attraction, a gorilla, has suddenly died and we’re panicking that attendance at the zoo will fall off. You’re handy with performance—can you act as the gorilla until we can get another one?”

The mime thought about it and said, “Sure!”

The next morning, the mime put on a gorilla suit and entered the gorilla cage. They discover it’s a fantastic job! They can sleep and play all they want and they enjoyed interacting with people and making them smile.

However, eventually the crowd moved on to the lion cage and the mime got bored swinging in the cage alone.

The cages are connected, so the mime climbed the bars, crawled across the divider, and dangled from the top of the lion cage. The lion saw the gorilla hanging there and was furious! The crowd loved it!

At the end of the day, the zookeeper was happy and gave the mime a raise for being such a good attraction.

This goes on for many days. The mime kept taunting the lion, the lion kept getting angry, the crowd grew larger, and the mime's wages kept going up.

But then, one terrible day, while the mime dressed as a gorilla was dangling over the furious lion, the mime lost their grip and fell into the cage. The mime was terrified! The lion crouched and prepared to pounce! The mime was so scared, they began to run around the cage with the lion chasing close behind. Finally, the mime yelled, "Help me help me!"

The lion jumped on the mime and pinned the mime to the ground. The lion growled, "Shut up, you nincompoop! Do you want to get us both fired!?"
